Bio	I moved back to California after I graduated from Ohio State as an Occupational Therapist. I originally worked for California Childrens' Services. I married Mitch Porter in 1976. We moved to Calabasas when we were expecting our son, Jesse who was born in 1981, our daughter, Jennine born in 1983 and our last baby, Jillian, born in 1987. In 1980 I began working at Tarzana Hospital in the NICU. I was there for 15 years. I began working with California Regional Center seeing fragile infants in their homes in 1983 until present. I have worked at Los Robles Hospital NICU and High Risk Follow Up Clinic for the last 22 years. I love working in the NICU and for Regional Center. After all the kids were graduated and on their own, I moved to Thousand Oaks, 3 miles from the hospital. My 92 year old Mom lives in Port Hueneme, only 30 minutes away. Thankfully, Jesse and his 3 great red headed children live very close. Jennine went to undergrad school in NY and grad school in Connecticut. She and her husband lived in Manhattan for 5 years until they began their family. They now live in Sandy Hook, CT with their 2 beautiful children. Thank God for Face Time and my friend, Ann, who works for American Airlines and allows me to fly back frequently. Jillian, her husband and 3 wonderful children live in the San Fernando Valley about 30 minutes away. I'm crazy in love with all of them. When I'm not visiting my Mom and family, baby sitting, attending baseball games or dance recitals, I love being at the beach. Malibu is my favorite. Going to live stage performances, dining and dancing with my ridiculously wonderful friends are other favorites. I am thankful for Face Book which has allowed me to remain in contact with my high school friends, and for Pat for this website.
